Family values never change.

M&E Equipment Traders are proud of their past and excited about their future as the biggest stockists of used industrial process equipment in Australia.

Vince Baldini was the visionary who established the company in 1991 and pioneered a new way of doing business. He began purchasing complete plants from some of the nation's biggest companies, breaking them down, and selling the equipment back to users in the manufacturing sector.

Today his sons Richard, Steven and Robert are taking this solid family business to a new level. They're expanding M&E's selection of both used and new process equipment, as well as growing the product range in their electrical division. It's all catalogued at www.equipmenttraders.com.au.

They're literally building on Vince's foundations at the company's giant new Sydney warehouse, with its comprehensive range of industrial and process equipment at a fair and competitive price.

Whilst M&E continue to move with the times, their family values have never changed. That's the key to their success.

Our look has changed, our deals never will.

Bigger supply, better bargains.

Customers have come to regard M&E as the ultimate 'supermarket' for new and used industrial process equipment. The buying is better than ever at our new Sydney complex.

The 24,000 square metre site, half of it undercover storage, also includes a fully equipped workshop to rejuvenate equipment to the high standard we require for sale.

We stock everything from large 100,000 litre tanks to ancillary components you need to make your system function, like pipes, valves, pumps and instrumentation. By selling the complete package, M&E save you even more money.

Our new facility has been purpose-built and designed as a machinery warehouse. Well racked and marked out, it is easy to walk around, view, and select what you need. A highlight is the new electrical sales counter and showroom, stocked with products from all the major electrical suppliers.

Our bargains never change.

'Never walk away from a fair and reasonable deal.'

It's the motto that has given M&E a reputation for selling excellent equipment at an extremely competitive price.

M&E are the equipment specialists servicing the food, chemical, pharmaceutical, packaging, materials handling and general industries.

At our state-of-the-art headquarters, there's more than 12,000 square metres of high quality stock under cover.

Buyers can now find even more equipment bargains for their industrial requirements, as well as electrical products for commercial, industrial and domestic users.

Due to M&E Equipment's capacity to purchase and handle complete manufacturing plants, our stock range is constantly changing which enables us to offer a great service to our customers.

A major benefit in buying used equipment from us is that we are able to offer it on a prompt delivery basis with nil lead time delay – saving you time and money.

Customers keep coming back to M&E – key people like business owners, project managers and engineers from smaller enterprises, right up to multinational corporations. Strong family values come through in the way we operate.

We do our very best to keep our customers satisfied, because we believe in long-term relationships. As your business grows, we want to grow with you.

We now have an even larger selection of process equipment

If you want it, the odds are that we have it.

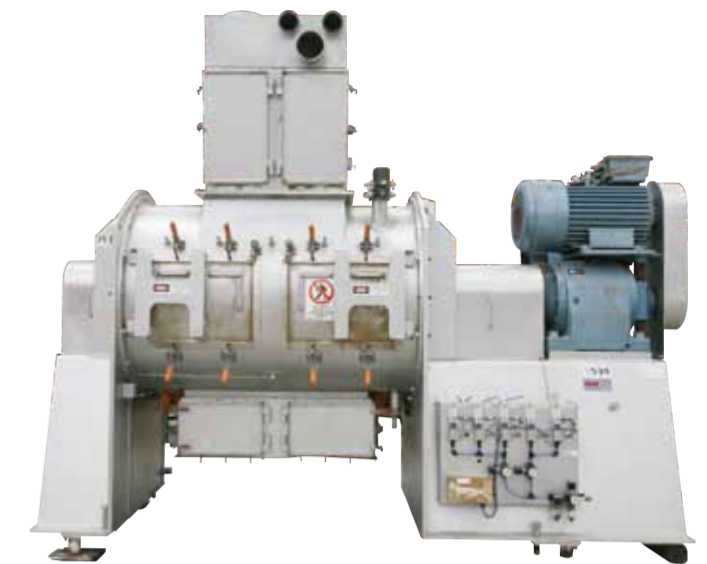

While our competitors operate in niche markets, we're focused on catering to everyone.

We sell an A to Z range of equipment for a host of industrial applications – from air compressors, centrifuges, extruders and generators to motors,

We source a large proportion of our stock from blue-chip companies like Nestle, Orica Australia, Carlton & United Breweries, Uncle Ben's, Arnott's, Goodman Fielder and Kodak Australia.

These industry leaders never compromise on quality or maintenance, so their excess production equipment is always in good working order to sell on to our customers. When you consider the sheer range and superb pedigree of our stock, both new and used, M&E stand out as your total equipment solutions company.
